ON THE COVER:

Artist Mischell Riley was commissioned by the Advisory Committee of the Roger T. Sermon Fund to create "Stella at the Spring." The statue is located on the grounds of the Sermon Center in Independence.

President's Message

Much attention has been given to the ups and downs (mostly) of the financial markets as economic indicators signaled a slowing during the last half of Y2K. Although Foundation investment returns were lower by -1.12%, the generosity of donors was not dampened.

During 2000, donors opened 67 new funds and contributed $4.2 million to new and existing funds.

Total assets increased by 21% ending the year at a record $18.5 million.

Donors set a record of their own by requesting that we distribute $900,000 in grants to charities of their choice.

But our donors had help in their work from a charitable partner who is often unnoticed. Let's look at the $4.2 million in contributions in another way.

- Donors saved $1,554,000 through the charitable deduction allowance on federal and state income taxes.
- Contributions to charities with qualified tax credits saved donors an additional $570,000.
- Contributions made with stock avoided capital gains taxes of $400,000.

Thus, donors were able to increase their support with dollars that otherwise would have gone to taxes. This is the value of working with the Foundation as you plan your charitable giving. Let us show you ways to extend your charitable reach as we work together to make our communities better places to live.

Sincerely,

Paul M. Thomson, Ph.D.
President and CEO

About the Foundation

The Truman Heartland Community Foundation, like approximately 300 other such entities nationwide, connects donors to charitable causes of their interest, building a financial resource for the community with a focus on local needs.

How we started

Nearly two decades ago, the Independence Community Foundation (predecessor to Truman Heartland) was established to begin bridging the gap between the charitable intent, and the charitable needs, of the community. The Foundation merged with the Independence Regional Hospital Foundation in 1994, at which time total assets stood at $1.8 million. A $1 million pledge by the Community of Christ Church (formerly the RLDS Church) enabled growth over the first five years.

Where we are today

Today, the Truman Heartland Community Foundation services donors and not-for-profits throughout Eastern Jackson County. The Foundation, now an $18.5 million public charity, awarded $900,000 in grants last year to charitable purposes in Lee's Summit, Raytown, Independence, Blue Springs and all 16 communities that make up Eastern Jackson County.

Truman Heartland is a supporting organization of the Greater Kansas City Community Foundation, which awarded Truman Heartland a $100,000 grant in 2000. In turn, Truman Heartland assists the Greater Blue Springs Community Foundation with staffing and support services.

Toasting Our Towns

Each year, Truman Heartland hosts "A Toast to Our Towns," a black-tie gala which, through the generous support of dinner patrons and sponsors, helps ensure the long-term viability of the Foundation.

This year's event drew a sell-out crowd for the fifth straight year, as Starlight Theater provided a marvelous backdrop to more than 565 guests. This year's Gala raised $58,819 and honored the following:

- Humanitarian Award for 2000.

Chuck and Colleen Foudree received the Award for their continued support and dedication to our local community.

- Citizen of the Year Awards.

Recipients included Pam Albarelli, Lyle Shaver, Charles Dumsky, Robert R. Sego, Carolyn Vellar, Carl Mesle, Brad Byam and Fred Byam, Bud Hertzog, and Howard Chamberlin for their inspired initiative to help their respective communities.

A hard-working team – lead capably by Lydia Jeter and Shirley Wurth with special thanks to Brenda Gustafson and Vicki Digby – was recognized for creating a wonderful and successful Gala event.

Channel 9's Larry Moore emceed this year's Gala. Starlight Theater provided the elegant backdrop.

Professional Profile

Estate, Business Law Expert Helps Clients Help the Community

Without question, Independence attorney Buford Farrington is an expert in estate and business planning and in the preparation of wills and trusts. His selection to the prestigious American College of Trust and Estate Counsel attests to that.

Perhaps more meaningful to clients of Humphrey, Farrington, McClain & Edgar, however, is the fact that Bunk (as he is known by all) is an expert at listening. “The most important thing I do is listen to the goals my clients want to accomplish,” Bunk says. “I can then assess their situation and pursue opportunities for them to achieve their objectives.”

When those objectives involve charitable giving and reducing taxes, Bunk often calls on the services of the Community Foundation. Bunk sees that relationship with the Foundation as one that benefits both the client and the community. And when he recommends the Foundation as a vehicle to assist his clients, it’s a responsibility that he takes very seriously. “First – and very importantly – the Foundation is a sound entity that my clients and I can trust,” Bunk says.

“Second, there are things that can be done through the Foundation for our clients and their beneficiaries that couldn’t be done otherwise. And third, the staff and the entire organization of the Foundation are set up to meet the needs of our clients and of the community.”

While many clients wish to contribute anonymously – such as the multi-million dollar Charitable Fund one of his clients set up in 2000 – Bunk says the Foundation is an excellent way to draw attention to charities. “Giving through the Foundation is an excellent way for clients to publicize an activity without bringing attention to themselves. That’s just one more way the Foundation serves as an excellent tool for our community,” Bunk concludes.

Independence attorney Bunk Farrington utilizes the Foundation to help his clients help the community.

Donor Profile

Fund Helps Close-Knit Family Establish a Legacy

Throughout their married life, Gene and Mary Haug of Raytown supported charitable causes in Eastern Jackson County. Through their St. Bernadette parish and on their own, and with contributions of time and money, the Haugs found ways to help those who were less fortunate.

That generosity was clearly embraced by the family's four children and their spouses — Roger and Kelly Haug, Michelle and Randy Cummings, Darin and Sarah Haug, and Gina and Ken Crum.

When Gene, who was an engineer at Hallmark Cards and a reserve Kansas City police officer, passed away in 1995, Mary, a homemaker, and her family established the Haug Family Foundation. Initially established with a $5,000 contribution to the Truman Heartland Community Foundation, the fund has since grown with yearly contributions from the family. Eventually a larger endowment will pass to the Foundation.

“Setting up a fund with the Foundation was the ideal way to honor our father,” says Darin. “At the same time, it offers a vehicle for our mother and all of us to continue doing good things for the community.”

The Haug's tax advisor, Foundation Board Member Mike Martin, helped in the process of setting up the fund. Today, grants are awarded to causes that the family becomes aware of through the Foundation and their church and through community involvement.

“We feel we're building a fund that will grow and perpetuate itself,” Darin says.

“We've organized the process by which we consider needs in the area, and we're now able to proactively seek those entities that can use our help.

“Best of all, Mom has been an integral part of that process and is helping shape the way the fund will assist the community in the future.”

With the Haug Family Fund, Raytown resident Mary Haug and her children carry on a charitable tradition in memory of the late Gene Haug.

2000 Grants and Scholarships

Grants Awarded

The following organizations received grant support during the 2000 Competitive Grantmaking Sessions. Entities may apply for grant support from the unrestricted funds of the Foundation if they are tax exempt 501 (c)(3) organizations or are units of local government or public education institutions or civic organizations for charitable purposes located in Eastern Jackson County. To receive a copy of the Foundation's Grant Guidelines, contact Liz McClure, Program Officer, at 816-836-8189 or mcclure@thcf.org.

Powell Gardens Garden Gatehouse Project. $1,000 for construction of redwood, limestone and glass gatehouse designed by Jaurice Jennings and David McKee.

Grain Valley Historical Society. $2,500 to assist with needed improvements on permanent site. First priority is for acquisition of wall mounted display cases.

Children's Art Institute. $5,000 for new children's art school that is partnering with area school districts and some private schools to showcase artwork of students.

Independence Music Club. $500 for printing, stationary and postage for music club that actively supports a music scholarship program for local students.

Independence School District. $5,000 for George Caleb Bingham Academy of the Arts, a 5-week summer music camp for approx. 90 Independence School District Juniors & Seniors chosen for their creative abilities in the areas of music, art, creative writing & dance.

Kansas City Symphony. $7,500 for partial funding of an educational collaboration with the Symphony and the Independence and Raytown School Districts, including mentoring sessions with orchestra members in two high schools, side by side performances with students, attendance at master classes and the Young People's Concerts for 5th & 6th graders.

Raytown School District Youth Friends Program. $4,500 for program development costs for Youth Mentoring programs in both school districts.
